DIRIGIBLE TRAGEDY IS A MYSTERY

Indicated Cause Will Be Assigned to "Unknown" Reason

SURVIVORS' STORIES

Thirty-four Victims Include All of Airship
Training School

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 22.—Army
air service experts today put under way their investigation to determine the cause of the disaster to the American airship Roma in which thirty-four were killed and eleven injured.

Stark and flame-seared, the twisted steel skeleton that had been the queen of American skies, lay near the Norfolk mud flats, its charred remains concealing many of the secrets the air service experts will seek to probe.

"None will ever know what caused her to collapse," an officer
from Langley field told the United Press.

Practically every one of the 34
victims was burned to death, officers and physicians said today.
Most of the bodies were identified by trinkets.

Major General Patrick, chief of the army air service, Washington,
was on the ground with an army
court of inquiry to determine the blame. While the court will require several days to complete its investigation, indication was that the crew would be exonerated and
the cause of the crash reported as "unknown."

The consensus of opinion is that Captain D. L. Mabry, commander of the Roma, in making the turn over the army base failed to allow for the increased power. The rudder broke under the unusual
strain jamming into the controls.
This occurred at a height estimated at 650 feet. The Roma's nose pointed down and Lieutenant Burt,
at the elevation lever, tugged desperately to straighten the ship.
She refused to respond and he yelled at Captain Mabry to shut off the motors. They were shut off one by one.

In the meantime the helpless
giant sagged rapidly, nose pointing down at an angle of 45 degrees.
Two score feet from the ground
the ship passed over a half dozen high tension wires, tearing them to fragments. A second later the dirigible thrust her nose into a mass of steel billets, machine parts

NOVEL SERVICE IS PROPOSED TO C. OF C.

Community Recreation on an Organized Program
Offered by Company

Representing the Community Service (Incorporated) H. W. Arbury addressed the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce at their luncheon and that on Tuesday relative to that organization to come to this city and give a free demonstration of three months duration of plans for community recreation. He explained the object of the organization he is representing and the purpose for which it was organized originally.
Mr. Arbury told the board of directors that he is planning to spend at least a week in this city
during that time will meet with the heads of the various civic bodies and the leaders of the community regarding the demonstration of the organization's work. He asked the Chamber of Commerce to endorse the plan. This request was referred to the Civic committee and Mr. Arbury instructed to set a date for a meeting with Dr.
Jessie Russell, chairman of the committee, and her workers, at which meeting the entire plan will be discussed and a report turned over to the board of directors.
Mr. Arbury in his talk stated that the Community Service was organized originally when the American troops were on the Mexican border. The purpose of the organization was to furnish the soldiers with clean forms of amusement. This same work was carried on by the organization during the World War and was so successful that at the conclusion of the war the suggestion was made for the continuance of the work during peace times.

The Community Service was incorporated in 1919 and is now a national organization with funds
set aside to assist the various communities in setting up community recreation. The organization helps communities to organize local community service committees which will develop their own locally governed and supported leisure time

Let Yourself Get Action Says Foley in "The Listening Post"

"A hundred pounds of man
with dynamic force and spirit
will achieve more than a ton
of man without movement.
Life needs action, energy, resolve to do and the will to achieve." After writing this in "The Listening Post" this evening, James W. Foley says:
"Let yourself get action."
Henry James in his comments on the day's news says
that reading character from handwriting is a legitimate subject for discussion. It is a human privilege, says Mr.
James, to believe that they err.
Dr. Frank Crane in his column says that a person's manner of walking along the street reveals his character,
and he goes on to prove it by
a number of facetious remarks.
Able editorials, poetry, paragraphs giving eastern points
of view, significant facts, and articles by John Pilgrim and Della Stewart make up an exceptionally interesting editorial page for the consideration of the readers of this newspaper tonight.

SCHOOL BUILDING COST INCREASE IS SHOWN

Advance of 30 Per Cent
Indicated by Bids on Construction

At the meeting of the board of education held Tuesday night at intermediate, members of the advisory committee of nineteen were present to confer with the board
relative to bids for the Acacia and Grand View schools which had been received and opened at the previous meeting.

The most important development was the increase that has taken place in the cost of building
since estimates were made prior to the bond election. Figures collected by Superintendent White in California and elsewhere showed in advance since last summer of 30 per cent. It was agreed that the original estimates had been too
conservative and the bids received ran 50 to 100 per cent higher than the estimates.
Committee members assured the board they would not be likely to better themselves by rejecting
these bids and advertising for others and they advised acceptance of the lowest responsible bids.

This meant the acceptance of bids for the Acacia school of four rooms and administrative offices
totalling $237,550, and for the Grand View school of four rooms
and administration offices and lavatory rooms of $31,504.48.

In the case of Acacia Avenue
the board had called for bids under a general contract and four sub contracts.

The Grand View bids called for no general contract but instead for fifteen contracts, the board and the architect are to take the place
of the general contractor.

The general contract for Acacia Avenue was awarded to J. B. Harris of Los Angeles on a bid of $21,721.

The largest contract at the Grand View school was a general
contract for excavation, masonry
and carpenter work which was awarded to May & Hellman of this city on their bid of $15,500.

All bids on construction were rejected last week it was found that there had been a misunderstanding
of the specifications on the part of some of the bidders. This portion of the work will be readv-tised.

The contract for sheet metal work
went to the St. Louis Corning Works of Los Angeles, the lowest bidder, for $172.

Composition roof work went to the outside bidders, Harris &
Bailey for $1265.

Hardware company, on San Fer-

P. E. ASKED TO PROTECT CROSSINGS

Dr. Russell's Committee
Reports on Dangerous Conditions

WILL SEEK SIGNALS

Intersection of 3 Streets
present Hazard to Pedestrians

The civic committee of the Chamber of Commerce reported at the weekly meeting and luncheon
of the board of directors through
the chairman of that committee,
Dr. Jessie Russell, on matters referred to the committee at a former meeting. She said that the committee had investigated the need of a safety signal of some sort at the Pacific Electric crossing at North Central avenue and recommended that the Chamber of Commerce ask the city council to request the Pacific Electric to install a safety signal at the crossing in question.

Dr. Russell stated that the crossing was extremely dangerous to pedestrians and motorists alike
as the approaches to the intersection are practically hidden by trees.

Later discussion of the recommendation of the committee
brought out the facts that two other crossings in this city were also in need of safety signals.
These crossings are the ones at Pacific avenue and Grand View avenue. It was decided to embody them in the request for signals.

HIGH TRUSTEES CONSIDER STREET OPENING

Property Owned by Leggett and Harrower
Is Discussed

The meeting of high school trustees Tuesday evening was devoted
more to conference than to action.

The opening of a street on the east side of the high school site
was discussed. Abutting property on that side is owned by Mr. Leggett and Dr. Harrower. Mr. Leggett is opening a tract on the Colorado side and wishes the street. As a result of the discussion instructions were given to have the Los Angeles Trust and Savings bank, Glendale avenue branch, which has the purchase papers in escrow, to take such action as will expedite
the opening of such a thoroughfare.

J. E. Smith, elected for forge work at a previous meeting, having been disappointed in getting the certificate promised him, will be unable to serve and James Clark
was elected to fill the vacancy.

The denial of a Washington's birthday holiday was discussed, the trustees agreeing that another year
it may be advisable to grant the holiday.

Principal Moyse reported that
Thursday morning at 10 a. m.
Architects Austin and Lindsey will join him and as many members of the board as can come in looking over the site of the high school,
with a view to a tentative location
of the proposed buildings.

Miss Daisy Lake was elected to fill the post of librarian which Miss Thomson is resigning in the expectation of going east in a few weeks to be married. This will be the third librarian in the course of a year. Mrs. Hall having been the incumbent when school opened. Miss Lake is now filling a library position in the southern branch of the University of California and will come to Glendale as soon as she can be released.

It was reported that the board's contract with the architects had been referred to County Counsel Powell, who had suggested a few changes, which would be made and the contract in its new form will be ready for presentation to Austin
and Lindsey within a few days.

NEW SUSPECT IN TAYLOR MURDER

DETROIT, Feb. 22.—Harry N.
Fields, convicted forger, claimed today to know the details of the murder of William D. Taylor, movie director slain in Los Angeles. He named the assailant and local officials immediately got in touch with Los Angeles authorities.

A list of test questions regarding movements of Taylor and the person named by Fields as the slayer,
were wired back by the Los Angeles officials. When these questions were put to Fields he answered them clearly and there was no conflict in his statement with the answers furnished by Los Angeles authorities, Sheriff Coffin announced.

Coffin declared Fields' story was further credited because he alleged the prisoner was a member of a national dope ring which operated extensively in Hollywood.

STATUE OF WASHINGTON TO BE UNVEILED IN TRAFALGAR SQUARE, LONDON

veiling of the statue of George Washington, to take place in Trafalgar

GEORGE WASHINGTON A SMALL BOY'S EULOGY

In February, Seventeen thirty-two,
A boy was born to fame,
The Father of our Country
George Washington became.

Think of that!

His life at home was very strict
All through his early days;
He had to be obedient,
And he spoke the truth always,
You bet he did!

He used to study awful hard
And in big books he'd burrow;
He learned to work hard problems, too,
Because he was so thorough,
In everything!

For when he chopped the cherry tree
With his little hatchet new,
He didn't hit it teeny whacks,
But he cut the darn thing through.
He did, by Jiminy!

His father asked him sternly,
"How came this thing to be?"
"I cannot tell a lie," George said,
"I cut your cherry tree."
Just like that!

He tried to break a blooded colt,
And make her safe to ride,
But she was wild and vicious,
And he rode her till she died.
But—he 'fessed up.

He grew to be the bravest man,
And everybody knew
He never did a task by halves,
But he'd see the thing clear through.
That's what counts!

And then came the Rebellion,
And soon the war was on.
He fought those British tyrants,
And in the end, he won!
Wasn't that great?

And when the states united
And they had to have some one
To be the country's President,
They chose George Washington.
Can you beat it?

He was first in peace, and first in war;
But here's the biggest thing:
It's only through George Washington
We're able now to sing
"My country, 'tis of thee."

Lest We Forget

Now and then we pause to take a full breath of inspiration in life. America is full of such inspiration, which comes through the grind and dust of life and the incessant digging for money in the world of business.

Such a moment today will fill the mental atmosphere with the lofty lived life of George Washington, not in the usual patriotic appeal of first in war, but in those underlying structures of character which permeated his life in peace time.

The keeping of a pledge, now in these days more of a matter of convenience and of explanation; the carrying forward of responsibilities, however arduous, when once assumed. The truth telling, the looking upward steadfastly, with unfaltering devotion to the God that rules and protects this country however we blunder
with the rest of the world.

All these should fill our mental atmosphere today,
which is dedicated to the memory of the Father of Our Country.

ASK LIGHTS FOR VALLEY HIGHWAY

San Fernando Improvement Ass'n. Seeks
Help of C. of C.

CLUSTERS WANTED

Advised to Line Up With Brand Organization to Work Out Ideas

The directors of the chamber of commerce in their weekly
luncheon and meeting yesterday
were presented with the proposition of the San Fernando Boulevard Improvement association to install cluster lights along San Fernando road from Brand boulevard to the city limits, if possible.
L. W. Wilson of the improvement association told the directors of the plan.

According to Mr. Wilson, the property owners along San Fernando road want a more adequate lighting system installed, giving as their reason the fact that the road
is one of the main thoroughfares
of the city and handles traffic from all parts of the county. At present the lighting system is inadequate and in the opinion of the property owners, is poor advertising for the city. Mr. Wilson said that the people along the street preferred the installation of a tree or four cluster lighting system in preference to the present one-light standards.

Mr. Wilson stated that the property owners along the road were not asking the city to install this system free, inasmuch as the type of standard differed from that in use by the city. He stated that petitions have been in circulation
among the property owners of the street and at present all the property owners had signed with but few exceptions.

President V. M. Hollister of the chamber of commerce suggested that inasmuch as the proposed light installation would start at Brand boulevard he thought it would be a good idea for the members of the San Fernando Boulevard Improvement association to get in touch with the like organization on Brand boulevard and the two organizations work together
in the matter of installing cluster lights on both streets.

This meeting will be arranged
and a report made to the directors of the chamber at a later date.

SURVEY OF NEW HIGH SITE IS DEFERRED

Architect Austin Is Detained by Sickness in
His Office

Architects Austin and Lindsey,
who had expected to be in Glendale Tuesday to make a preliminary survey of the new high school
site at Verdugo road and Broadway, in company with Principal George U. Moyse, were unable to come because of the illness of a member of Mr. Austin's office staff, making it impossible for him
to leave.

After this survey has been made
and a few rough plans and estimates have been prepared by the architects, the board of trustees
will be face to face with several big problems which must be solved before they can decide on the amount of a bond issue to be called for high school buildings.

An auditorium to seat 3,000 has been talked of, but whether the board will feel that the initial call
should include a building so expensive remains to be seen. The bonding capacity of the city for high school purposes is now $600, 000. The cost of the site, for which bonds have already been voted, is approximately $80,000,
and there is a possibility that additional purchases to carry the school ground line to Colorado
street for the full width of the campus, may be decided upon.

ly after midnight this morning in the county hospital from bullet
wounds inflicted by his wife dur-

Mrs. Eva Davis, the wife, is in the county jail.
"We had a quarrel because I

get me a drink of water," she said.
"He wouldn't do it. We had an water myself, but he went to the doorway and wouldn't let me past.

I tried to force my way by, but his holster. Ed slapped me before I could get up, and I reached for

ATTACK ON FOUR POWER PACT SLATED

Foreign Relations Committee Begins Drafting Reservations

JOHNSON AGAINST IT

Brandegge Resolution Is Acceptable to Harding-
Senators Learn

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Senator Lodge will appeal to President Harding in an effort to stave off adoption of reservations to the four-power Pacific treaty.

Lodge today prevented a vote by the foreign relations committee on the Brandegge reservation by announcing that he wanted to discuss reservations with Harding. Lodge has arranged to see Harding Thursday.

When Lodge called up the Yap treaty in the senate today, Senator France, Maryland, moved to recom-
mit it to the foreign relations committee. The motion was ruled out of order. France later said he would not at once renew it "because there are not enough senators here now who would vote for it."

But later on he said he would make the motion and predicted it would rally considerable support.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—The senate foreign relations committee
today was to adopt a reservation to the four power Pacific pact and order the treaty reported to the senate. The senate itself was to begin discussion of the treaty with Japan
setting the status of American cable and business interests in the Island of Yap.

Announcement that President
Harding will not object to the Brandegge reservation to the Pacific treaty was made by administration members of the foreign relations committee. Former "irreconcilables" declared the reservation left nothing of the treaty but a promise by the United States to respect the territorial rights of all other nations in the Pacific. As the United States would respect
those rights without the treaty, senators said this nation will not be bound to anything new or unusual,
now that the adoption of the reservation is virtually assured.

Collapse of the expected opposition leadership by Senator Johnson, California, has left "the opposition" to the four-power and the other arms conference treaties pisorganized and apparently without much heart for an attack on the treaties.

Johnson, himself, predicts that there will be about two republican votes against the four-power pact
—his own and La Follett's. There are some indications that Johnson
may accept the Brandegge reservation as saving the situation.
Borah's attitude also was in doubt.

MILITIAMEN WIN FROM ORANGE

Orange Basketball Team Puts Up Strong Fight But Loses

The Glendale national guard basketball team, which now goes under the name of the Glendale night school team, defeated Orange last night to the tune of 26 to 22. The game was played at Orange and necessitated a long drive. It was close throughout and afforded sufficient thrills to satisfy the most "thrillful." The referee called a great many fouls, some of which seemed unnecessary.

Walter Melver played the best game at guard and Jensen at center tallied most of the points. At one point of the game Dennison took a high dive and came down chin first. He says that the floor on this occasion carried a wallop that would have come near knocking out Jack Dempsey.

This game leaves several teams of the league contending for second place, the team representing the Larry Semon studio seeming to have clinched first honors. The Glendale team will play Fullerton junior college in the Glendale high school gymnasium next Friday night.

ENTERTAINMENTS AT HIGH SCHOOL

Lillian Goldsmith to Read Thursday; Glee Will Sing Friday

Glendale high is well placarded with announcements that on Thursday at 10 a. m. Lillian Goldsmith, the popular dramatic reader and lecturer, will be the entertainer at an assembly for the benefit of the Girls' League.

Another big event in which the general public should be greatly interested is the concert to be given by the combined girls and boys' glee clubs Friday night in the school auditorium under the direction of Mr. Meeker, the chorus leader, and with the assistance of Alfred Kastner, a noted harpist.

This is the first glee club concert by pupils that the school has ever given. It will be the best possible opportunity to learn the good work that is being done along the lines by our boys and girls and to take stock of the material that is being developed to swell the ranks of the musical organizations of the city.

'SATURDAY NIGHT' AT THE T. D. & L.

If you were not one of the 2,000 people who went to the T. D. & L. theatre yesterday to see Cecil B. DeMille's amazing film, "Saturday Night" there only remains two days—today and tomorrow, for you to do so. All those who saw this very fine show went home with a feeling that they had really witnessed one of the greatest pictures ever flashed upon the silver screen.

ELDRIDGE GIVES CLEVER READING

The entertainment given by Gilbert A. Lee Eldridge, a professional reader and impersonator, at the First Methodist church Monday evening, was enjoyed by an audience of about 200 and proved a great treat.

Mr. Eldridge's impersonation of "Shylock" was the outstanding feature, but he was also greatly enjoyed as "David Harum," the horse trader.

The program, which consisted of nine numbers, included several very original skits. Every number was warmly applauded by the appreciative audience.

M'BRYDE IS NOW A MASTER MASON

Becomes a Member of Unity Lodge No. 368

Unity Lodge No. 368, F. & A. M., had a minor celebration Tuesday night of which James F. McBryde was the center. He was raised to the degree of master mason and was the 368th member to be so honored. It was therefore an occasion of unusual significance and an occasion on which a review of the growth of the lodge was fitting.

The degree work was given in fine manner and then the lodge adjourned to the banquet hall, where refreshments in charge of Will Reynolds were served in a manner which won him many compliments.

At the conclusion of the banquet Master Dwight Stephenson called the roll of past masters, beginning with George U. Moyle, first master of the lodge under dispensation and for the first year under the charter. He described conditions at that time, a few were the house in Glendale, and the small lodge hall upstairs in a building at the corner of Glendale and Wilson avenues, reciting a number of incidents of lodge life in those quarters. He mentioned the move to the masonic building on Brand which is now occupied by the Brand boulevard branch of the Los Angeles Trust & Savings bank. Many little personal incidents concerning the men in this first group, the difficulties they met, and how they overcame them, were related. A tribute was paid to the 16 charter members, many of whom are dead.

A letter of congratulation and regret over inability to be present was read from P. E. Albright, the third master of the lodge, who is now living in El Centro.

Tributes were paid to W. A. Thompson and Richard Sternberg, deceased past masters. Daniel Campbell, because of illness, was unable to be present, but talks were made by other past masters—Arthur Campbell, Roy Masters, Frederick Baker, Ernest Morgan and Harry Goodwin. Other living past masters who were not present are Wilbur McFadden of Bakersfield, Jerry Neel, William Nash, John Hobbs, R. Z. Imier and Don Erskine.

However, delegates of 15 of the 16 railroad unions met with leaders of mine workers on call of President John L. Lewis, of the United Mine Workers of America.

Officials of the United Mine Workers of America made no attempt today to induce representatives of rail unions to strike in sympathy with them because they had been unofficially informed that such pleas would fall upon deaf ears.

The grand opening of the Japan Tea and Art store, 135 South Brand boulevard, yesterday proved to be a complete success. From the moment of the opening of the doors in the morning until closing time, the visitors to this establishment constituted one long process of prospective buyers. While entering the store those making up this line were filled with expectancy, while on the faces of those leaving the establishment was an expression of satisfaction that was unmistakable. Every person attending was more than pleased with the contents of this most unique of stores. Many surprises were planned for those who attended this opening and the many wonderful things that assist in making up the stock proved a revelation to the people of Glendale.

In this store is to be found an exceptionally fine collection of Persian and Chinese rugs, which, according to many of those attending the opening yesterday, is the finest collection ever seen in Glendale. These created a near-sensation among the visitors, as did the unusually fine collection of Satsuma, bronze and cloisonne ware, many different pieces of which were on exhibition. This is the first time that these wares have been offered for sale in Glendale.

Many exclamations of surprise were heard with regard to the modern tea and coffee department, which is the only one of its kind in the western part of this country. This system was designed by a member of this firm.

Taken all in all the opening of this establishment was an unusual well-attended occasion. By their attendance the people of Glendale showed that they realize fully the value of an establishment of this character in Glendale. It would seem that the future of this store is exceedingly bright.

Shortly after marriage the average man acts as if he had conferred a great favor on his wife by leading her to the altar.

Superintendent White reported that he had received title to nearly all the pieces of property which the board had purchased and had in escrow, but that the purchase of the Barber property on Park and of the Edwards property is still hanging fire.

Heating systems were discussed but remain still under advisement. Because of the increased cost of building which will make it impossible for the board to carry out in entirety its building program with the money available, a committee of five members of the general advisory committee of which Francis Wilkinson was made chairman, was appointed to confer with the board concerning the remainder of the program.

RAILROAD UNIONS REFUSE TO STRIKE WITH MINERS

Must Battle Alone if They Leave Work on April First

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—Miners of America are ready tonight, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers' organization of the country, today told a joint conference of union mine and railroad workers here.

Lewis pleaded for the moral support of the railroad unions in the strike of miners, which seemed certain would come April 1. "We must have public sentiment with us," Lewis declared. "If the railroad men will give us their moral support, the psychological effect in swinging sentiment in our favor will be tremendous."

He said that he was not ready to admit it was necessary to present to the miners to accept a wage reduction at this time. "A reduction in miners' wages would not benefit the public through a drop in price of coal," he declared.

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—Coal miners must fight their own battles with operators in event of a strike April 1 and can look for no aid from railroad workers, according to indications here today.

Officials of the United Mine Workers of America made no attempt today to induce representatives of rail unions to strike in sympathy with them because they had been unofficially informed that such pleas would fall upon deaf ears.

However, delegates of 15 of the 16 railroad unions met with leaders of mine workers on call of President John L. Lewis, of the United Mine Workers of America.

SCHOOL ART CRAFT SHOWN AT CLUB

Section of Tuesday Club Shown Work That Can Be Done Here

The regular meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon club was held at the Masonic temple and was in charge of the arts and crafts section of the club, of which Mrs. R. W. Meeker is curator. It proved to be a meeting of much interest, as it showed just what work is being carried on in our public schools and what our children can learn if they care to study along art lines. The arts and crafts section being a new one, they were unable to put on as elaborate a program as some of the older sections, so, in order to make the meeting interesting as well as educational, they called upon the art department of the high school. Owing to the illness of Miss Abbott, head of the department, Miss Abel took her place in telling of the work done in the schools, showing different samples.

The first one shown was greatly out of proportion, which naturally would be the work of an amateur student in art, but going step by step, each one improved greatly until the finished product was shown. There are three teachers in this department at the high school, Miss Abbott, Miss Crandall and Miss Abel, and all of their classes are crowded, but the pupils seem so eager to study this work that teachers are doing everything they can to accommodate them. Pen and ink drawing is taught, as well as charcoal and is pasted work. The study of this work gives one a keener appreciation of art and a better understanding of color. There is also a course in designing, as America must produce designers if she is to keep up with the rest of the world. Drawing teaches the student to think independently and see accurately. Some very fine drawings were shown at this time.

The speaker of the afternoon was C. J. Hall, former Chataqua lecturer and now secretary of the Bone-Dry federation. Mr. Hall is teacher of the largest men's bible class in Los Angeles, that of the Temple Baptist church, with an enrollment of 1001 men. The greater part of his talk was devoted to patriotism, telling what it is—"love for one's country"—and he claims that the greatest thing under God's blue skies is to be a citizen of the United States. Mr. Hall said in part:

"If America does not speak, all the world asks her to speak and they sit up and listen. We should be optimistic and not pessimistic about the future of America. It is the spirit of progress which animates our people and the progress of the country. The question today is not what our country has done, but what we are doing today and what we will be doing tomorrow. America's glory is in America's future, and the teachers and professors in American schools are dealing in America's future and we want something more than record. We people in California should be glad that Columbus did not land at Long Beach because if he had the probably would never have gone any farther and discovered America. The most striking fact is that the people in the east are living in the past and we here in California are living in the future. Before the war most of us knew only four words, and they were 'I, Me and Mine.' But since that time we have taken part in so many important things and rendered useful service in so many ways that we now have something else to think about."

"Patriotism and Christianity today is spelled S-E-R-V-I-C-E. Every boy and girl raised under this flag must talk the language of this flag."

Mr. Hall told of a sign he saw in a Norwegian store which read: "If you know the English language, talk it; if you don't know it, learn it; and if you don't learn it, move."

"The greatest word in the world today is 'justice.' We are fighting today for justice and our greatest problem today is the lack of respect for law." He spoke of the liquor traffic saying that "the liquor traffic is not bigger than the American government, but if it is, we must give up."

LEGION NEWS

The campaign for securing the passage of the ten-million dollar bond issue for the benefit of the soldiers of California in the late war, that they may be affixed to the soil of their native state in homes or ranches, is beginning to attain momentum through the efforts of the American Legion of California.

The measure will undoubtedly appear upon the ballot in the next election, as a referendum measure from the state.

The mention of a bond issue is readily interpreted in terms of increased taxes by those who read and run. But a little study of the measure shows quite clearly that the plan evolved does not place a burden upon the state or the citizens or the taxpayers of the state.

It places the burden directly upon the shoulders of the soldiers of the state taking advantage of the measure. This both as to interest and principal.

The only state asset involved is the credit of the state in the issuance of the bonds with the state as sponsor.

The money will be loaned upon a scale backed by security and safeguarded by regulations by which the fund of ten million dollars becomes a revolving fund and discharges its own obligations.

The constitutionality of the measure has been mildly attacked by the state treasurer, and is now before the supreme court on a mandamus proceedings. It is held that the constitution does not permit the state to loan money to individuals or corporations.

It is contended that this is an emergency and the state does not loan money, lending only its credit for the initiation of the fund.

The chance of the measure going before the people is about fifty-fifty. Should the supreme court rule adversely the Legion will probably work for a constitutional amendment specifically permitting the measure to be put to a vote of the people of the state. In this way the road would be cleared.

VETERANS ARE EXPERT TRADESMEN
WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—The mills of the veterans' vocational training school turn slowly but they grind out exceedingly fine bricklayers, plumbers, actors, doctors, mechanics, lawyers, truck drivers and the finished products of a hundred other arts and trades; the United States War Veterans Bureau reports.

Many of the slowest undergo startling changes in the process of rehabilitation. Men who formerly pounded out a living with sledgehammers now are extracting a living with dentists' forceps. Men who before the war worked in factories and on the docks or followed other manual labor now are engaged in the so-called polite professions. In many of these cases the change in occupation was made necessary by disabilities incurred in the war. With the rest of them it merely was recognition of an opportunity to learn something new and move on to a better life.

Carl Kahn, who was severely wounded by shrapnel and incapacitated for his old trade, entered a school of dramatic arts at government expense. Today he has a 40 weeks' contract with a vaudeville company at a salary of $200 a week with a provision that his salary be increased $50 a week at the expiration of the contract.

Louis M. Brady, an office boy before the war; has been metamorphosed into an actor of considerable earning capacity and great promise. Arthur Hughes, now playing in a certain popular drama, was recently rehabilitated by the bureau. Joseph B. Smith, who was graduated from a government training school in Nashville, Tenn., won first prize for the best commercial letter and now has many commercial houses bidding for his products.

Howard C. Bald, a bronco buster before going over seas, was injured and took a course in horticulture at Davis, Calif. Now he is managing an orange grove in this state.

Of the more than 105,000 disabled veterans now being retrained, many hundreds are studying for the professions, the bureau stated. Thousands already have been graduated into scores of professions and trades.

Women's Missionary Society—The Women's Missionary society's reading circle of the First Methodist church will meet with Mrs. Sawyer, 335 Patterson avenue, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Kings' Guards Meet—The King's Guards, of the First Methodist church, composed of girls and boys from 8 to 14 years of age, will meet at the church Friday afternoon after school.

GETTING HIS TEAM READY FOR DOG RACE

ASHTON, Idaho, Feb. 22.—The American dog derby, which starts here today, will have eight starters, including the premier mushers of America. Contending against the hardened veterans of the trail will be Miss Lydia Hutchinson, 20-year-old girl, said to be the first woman ever to enter a dog team in the annual snow classic.

"Smoky" Gaston, driver who has been missing in Targhee for a week, returned yesterday, his dogs badly cut up as the result of a fight with a lynx. Gaston probably will not be in the race.

Truths in Epigram

Men of most renowned virtue
have sometimes
transgressed
the law.—Milton (1608-1674).

Vicissitudes of fortune, which spares neither man nor the proudest of his works, which buries empires and cities in a common grave.—Gibbon (1737-1794).

PROTECTING THE GUDGEON

Not long ago an enterprising attaché of the navy sold the entire Pacific fleet to a land lubber. The exact figures do not come to mind, but they lacked much of representing the real value of the ships. The sale was not consummated. More recently another, apparently of speculative mind, sold a single battleship to a stranger from Kansas. The ship as it rides at anchor at San Pedro is worth something above twenty million dollars. The Kansan got it for $900. He was well pleased with his bargain until he sought to take possession of the craft. Then the uniformed gentlemen aboard declined to turn the property over to him. The person who had sold it had vanished from the scene. The $900 had vanished with him.

The plain truth is that no Kansan needs a battleship. It could not be made to serve the purpose of a tractor. The attempt to plow with it would be futile. There is no water in Kansas that could afford sufficient draft to make the craft useful for excursion purposes.

There are laws in plenty designed to protect against confidence games, but in instances they are useless. There is a depth of stupidity that places the individual outside the law. For the investor who purchases a capital building, or a Brooklyn bridge, or the statue of Liberty, or even a battleship full panoplied for ocean service, there is no help.

PLAYING WITH FIRE

Dispatches from Berlin say that negotiations are in progress between Germany and Russia looking to a trade understanding. If this is true then Germany is playing with fire. For years its common people have been soaked in the poison propaganda of the bolsheviks. A large element there seems to be in a mood to accept bolshevism. Should the final barrier be broken down, by the acceptance on the part of the German government, of terms that recognize the soviet regime as worthy of being bargained with in good faith, the end of Germany may be glimpsed. The Germans may feel that they have to stagger under a burden of debt, and that the load is almost too much to bear. Nevertheless it is possible for them to look forward to industrial development. There is not only a possible but probable future for Germany as a nation.

Let Germany be swept by bolshevism, to which it seems inclined to open the gates, and there is nothing to indicate that it would not become another Russia, a ruin and a desolation, without hope.

Bolshevik leaders have been plotting to seize Germany. Perhaps Germany deems itself strong enough to form a partnership with the bolsheviks, and be the dominant part of the combination. The world will regard the experiment as exceedingly dangerous, likely only to enlarge the area over which bolshevism rages as a pestilence.

CLOSING UNSAFE THEATERS

Seven theaters in Washington, D. C., have been closed as unsafe to the public. While this is a sequel to the collapse of one such building at the cost of almost a hundred lives, it is not wholly akin to locking the stable door after the horse had been stolen. Evidently there remained a number of doors in need of being locked.

Several men concerned in the erection of the building that fell down have been "held to answer." This is a legal phrase indicating that they are deemed responsible and must give bail to appear for trial. Doubtless this will cause them considerable annoyance. There are no precedents leading to a belief that any penalty more severe will follow. In similar instances even actions for civil damage have come to naught.

The city of Washington is not particularly well governed. It is under the jurisdiction of federal authorities, and they are too busy with other matters to attend to details. A catastrophe of magnitude was required to awaken them to a sense of duty. The effect should be salutary, and by no means confined to the capital. In the haste of construction and the desire for profit, it is not unreasonable to assume that defective material and methods enter into the composition of buildings elsewhere.

CANAL FORTS

Attention is called to the fact that a hostile fleet could pound to pieces the defenses of the Panama canal. Alarm is sought to be incited over the circumstance, the efforts coming from pseudo patriots of the type protesting against the treaties growing out of the disarmament conference.

It might be useful to ask these disturbers of the public peace whence they expect the hostile fleet to appear. The crux of the findings is not the abolition of fleets, but the abolition of hostility. The senseless doctrine that every nation should be kept in a warlike mood, a chip on its shoulder, ready for a fight, seeking a fight; conceding nothing to honor, to good faith, to the desire for peace, no longer finds advocacy among intelligent people. It is this fact that the minds of Hearst and his illogical and turbulent band are utterly unable to grasp.

If a hostile fleet could do certain things, the circumstance loses importance because of the certainty that there is no hostile fleet, and because of the concert and accord of the powers, there could be no such fleet. The effort to scare Americans, to induce them to become guilty of breaking their pledges, to impugn the integrity of the nations that have entered into agreement with them, is effective as an affront to decency. At that point its potency ends.

FIFTY YEARS AFTER

Philadelphia intends to hold in 1926 a great show to be known as the sequentennial. That will be just fifty years after the Centennial of 1876, the first exhibition of such magnitude as to be a national enterprise. Many who passed through the gates then will be on hand for a second experience. They will be amazed to see how much the world has progressed. The mind, unaided by material demonstration, is unable to grasp the stupendous advance of fifty years.

In 1876 Philadelphia, although the second city in the land, had a population of less than a million. To accommodate the vast army of tourists during a period of six months, it was turned practically into a collection of hotels and boarding houses. Many a home was opened to strangers. The gentle art of gouging seemed not to have been invented. The buildings had been grouped in beautiful and spacious Fairmount park, and one—the old art building—still stands. In every department of the several structures was displayed "the last word" in whatever was to be seen. All the motive power for the mass of machinery was supplied by the Corliss engine, a lofty construction running with the smoothness of a sewing machine. Awe-struck spectators could not conceive of any invention that would outstrip this monster from its place in the industrial world.

Nobody in 1876 was aware of the possibility of the telephone, even the modern telegraph, or the use of electric current for light or power. The phonograph was not even a dream. There was no automobile, no airplane, no linotype or thought of them. Most of the complex machinery used in commerce and manufacture has been conceived and assembled since then. The discovery of the X ray, and kindred discoveries leading to experiments with radio activity, were in the future. Of course communication by wireless could not have been faintly visioned in the days that knew so little of communication by wire.

In 1926 other millions will visit the big show. They will marvel at it. They, too, will behold "the last word" in the product of human genius. And fifty years later still, doubtless there will be an exposition marking the end of 200 years of American independence, and there once more will be the revelation of so many achievements, not now dimly formulated as possible, that the chief wonder will be that the people of 1926 believed themselves to have accomplished so much.

It is possible for the telephone to be a nuisance. A Chicago woman got into the habit of calling a certain man forty times a day. That this interfered with his regular business may be taken for granted. He had her put under bonds to cut him off her calling list; perhaps not gallant, but what could the poor chap do?

It is fortunate that citrus fruits injured by sun or frost do not represent total loss. Citrus by-products, as made by a concern at Corona, employ the damaged fruit to good purpose. The essential properties that lend themselves to treatment by scientific methods are not impaired even when the fruit itself has been rendered unsuited to direct consumption.

STREET ETIQUETTE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

One reveals one's self by his manner of walking along, by his sidewalk manners, as it were.

Strolling leisurely, smoking a cigarette and swinging a cane, indicates that a gentleman is one of the idle rich, and even if he roosts at night in a hall bedroom he sometimes wishes to create this impression.

If you are a doctor and are out of patients, it is an excellent idea to hurry through Main street with your medicine satchel, wear a worried look, don't speak to your friends, walk around town a little and hurry back. The exercise will do you good and the advertisement is strictly ethical.

If you are an office-seeker, speak to everybody, whether you are acquainted or not. Take a chance. And look pleasant. The politician (before election) and the pastor should stay home if they have a grouch.

Four girls should lock arms and walk abreast. This attracts more attention. It also makes people have to get off the sidewalk and walk in the gutter, which is awful funny.

In passing by the American house, where all the traveling men are sitting out in front, girls should look neither to the right nor to the left. Straight ahead, Mabel, and watch your step!

When a gentleman is conversing with a dynamic blonde in the street, and laughing heartily, as one will, and suddenly sees the missus bearing down on him from around the corner, keep on laughing, don't stop and walk away. You'd just as well laugh while the laughing is good.

In carrying an umbrella in the rain, hold it down before you so you cannot see who is coming. Thus you will be popular with the specialists in eye, nose and face troubles.

When you are finishing a conversation with any one, don't look around as you leave, but back away, for so doing you may get knocked down by a rapidly moving fat lady, and knocking down is what one needs when one does that sort of thing.

Judges, bishops, college presidents, and mayors should not whistle on the street.

In walking out with your dog on the crowded sidewalk, use as long a leash as possible. Thus the little darling, as he runs to and fro, will have an opportunity to get the string tangled about some one's ankles, causing him to fall, thus adding to your popularity and enabling you to learn some new cuss words.

Insult only small boys and cripples; do not insult policemen and prize fighters.

Sleeping on the sidewalk is not considered good form since the advent of prohibition.

On circus day ladies from the country are permitted to sit on the curb stone and nurse babies while waiting for the parade.

If a gentleman in a checked suit and spats greets you cordially, calls you Mr. Jones and asks how all the folks are in Omaha, and your name happens to be Smith, and you hail from Oshkosh, do not tell him the truth; tell him that he is mistaken, that your name is Sinclair Lewis and you live on Main street in Gopher Prairie. If he believes you, he is not literary.

THE LISTENING POST

It isn't quantity that counts so much in the matter of achievement.
It's movement.
Action.

Life is in movement and action.
The seed bursts and sends forth tendrils and shoots and reproduces itself a hundred times.
The bit of pebble remains constant.

Either it remains constant.
Or it diminishes.
Wears away by attrition or erosion.
But it does not move and grow and increase.

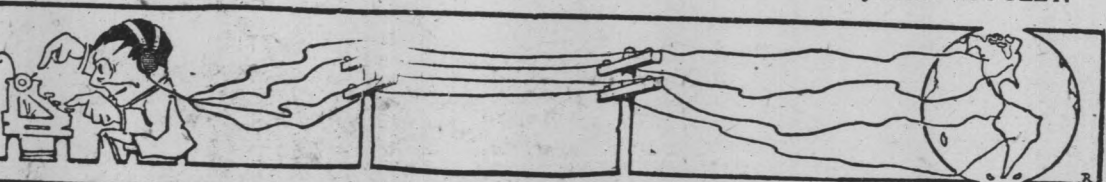

A hundred pounds of man with dynamic force and spirit will achieve more than a ton of man without movement.
Spiritless in action.

A little man with courage will plant the flag on the enemy's battlements.
And lead the way over.
While a great hulk of indolence and deadness will sleep in his tent.

There is a lake in the hills.
Placid, still, motionless.
Clear and blue and full of fish perhaps.
But without movement.
Good to look at.
But its latent influence purposeless.

There is no knowledge of it a dozen miles away.
And then there is a channel out of which the water flows.
Down a great slope.
And it dashes and splashes through turbines and sends wheels flying and generates power that is dispatched over great transmission lines.

There is life for you.
Dynamic force.

SONGS OF THE POETS

The Lost Mistress—By Robert Browning (1812-1889)

All's over, then: does truth sound bitter
As one at first believes?
Hark, 'tis the sparrows' good-night twitter
'About your cottage eaves!

And the le... buds on the vine are woolly,
I noticed that, today;
One day m... bursts them open fully
—You know the red turns gray.

Tomorrow... e meet the same then, dearest?
May I take your hand in mine?

Mere friends are we—well, friends the merest
Keep much that I resign:

For each glance of the eye so bright and black,
Though I keep with heart's endeavor—
Your voice, when you wish the snowdrops back,
Though it stray in my soul forever!

Yet I will but say what mere friends say,
Or only a thought stronger;
I will hold your hand but as long as all may,
Or so very little longer!

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

AN AMERICAN ROMANCE
(Louisville Courier-Journal)

Once upon a time there was a poor boy who became a lawyer and politician in a small town in a middle west state. As a result he became connected with the business end of national politics, an assiduous and an able servant of a great political party.

In the course of events the little lawyer—physically, of course—from the little town became postmaster general. For a while he contrived to live upon his cabinet salary in Washington.

Soon came certain business men with a gunnysack of gold and with a proposition to pay the cabinet officer a whacking salary. The publicity agents said to the public $150,000. At any rate it was more than the pay of several cabinet officers, or maybe the pay of the whole cabinet.

The little lawyer from the little town put his hand into the gunnysack of gold and felt it. It was real gold. He pinched himself. He said to the business men, after due consideration: "My country may need me. My country! May she be always right, but right or wrong, my country! Nevertheless you get me."

In this true story we have an American romance.

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA STEWART

There is such a thing as being too happy-go-lucky. A Mexican peon and his family, so the story runs, huddled in their shack during a storm when the rain was pouring through many leaks in the roof.

"Why don't you mend your roof?" the peon was asked.
"Can't; it's raining too hard," was his answer.
"But why didn't you mend it before the rainy season?"

"Maybe it would be a good plan for us to examine our roofs! It might be that we'd find many potential leaks! It's surely comfortable, for a time, to live in the present and to forget all else. But the trouble is it doesn't stay comfortable!"

Some of us are overanxious for the future. Others of us are ever on the watch-out for troubles that never arrive. But these are no more foolish than those of us who refuse to think of tomorrow at all and go blithely on in a fool's paradise.

For tomorrow has a way of succeeding today whether or not we will. And tomorrow must be reckoned with when in turn it becomes today. Our todays are apt to determine our tomorrows, but they don't always. Life has so many surprises for us. If we're not prepared the worse luck.

It's hard in the sunny days to remember that rain is bound to come. The modern way is to chance the shower—maybe some one else can lend us an umbrella. (But we're not always lucky enough to find an overstocked friend at the right minute.) It's much better to have our own umbrella in reserve, isn't it?

Quite as wonderful as a story from the "Arabian Nights" Entertainment." It is a story which will be told again from time to time, and truly. Yet there are grumblers who say that a young man has no chance in America nowadays.

GREATEST OBSTACLE TO PEACE

(The Churchman)

The fatal difficulty in holding to the possibility of war as the solution of honor, the lesser of two evils, is that that conviction prevents any chance of abolishing war. It drains off the spiritual energy from the one channel which can prevent war. For, so long as statesmen know that war is a possibility, they will refuse to put capital into the real preventative of war; they will not invest in effectual preparedness for peace. So long as war is held to be respectable, the lesser of two evils, the way out, it is bound to be evoked as a solution, capitalized by ambitious governments and men. There is, indeed, risk in such a Christian faith, but not so serious a risk as another war. If the Christian church should preach that war is sin, would Mr. Hearst and his contemptible papers persist in their daily slander, their propaganda against Japan and Mexico? Hearst persists, because he knows that war is a possibility. He knows that it is conceivable that America should fight Japan and Mexico. If it were not a possibility, a thing to be imagined, he could no more stand up against public opinion and preach hate than Trotsky and Lenin could sail for New York and preach a soviet government in Union

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Reading character from handwriting is a legitimate subject for discussion, since people persist in the statement that they are able to do such reading. It is a human privilege to believe that they err. Perhaps they do not err deliberately. There has been nothing to show, however, that their reading is more valid, or that it requires greater perspicacity, than interpretation of the grounds in the bottom of a cup.

A few years ago one of these students of chirography became irritated at an editor for doubting. She challenged the editor to forward specimens of handwriting of people whose characters were known to himself, but whose identities were concealed from her. The answers, much to the surprise of the editor, were all wrong. They were so far wrong that he refrained out of pity from exposing their absurd fallacies, and permitted the matter to drop.

The handwriting of one woman was mistaken for that of a man, and the delineation drawn from it did not fit in any detail. The handwriting of a man, a generous soul beloved by all, made him out a surly and stingy individual whom to know would be to detest. And so forth.

Still, of course, if people like to have their handwriting analyzed as the index of their souls, and the measure of their worth, nobody questions their rights in the matter. They also may have their palms read if they want to, and are at liberty to consult the seventh son of a seventh son, born with a caul.

Among the weird tales written by the late Ambrose Bierce was one entitled "The Ape and the Idiot." It is recalled by the recent experience of a Philadelphia policeman. He had been solicited to enter a blazing house to save "Charlie." The husband of the woman who begged this favor, already had jumped from the third story, carelessly leaving "Charlie" behind.

The policeman courageously undertook the errand. He pulled the missing member of the family out of bed, along with a wrapping of bed clothes, and descending at great risk, discovered that he had rescued an ape. Whether the woman was grateful or not is not stated, but no matter. The copper was a good-natured chap or he would have slapped her jaw in either case.

This is a second tale of "The Ape and the Idiot." It is hardly necessary to explain the identity of the idiot, and besides, one would hesitate to call a woman that right out in so many words.

The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce proposes to have a new and adequate home. Of course there is opposition, because the site chosen is an admission that the city is growing in a certain direction, whereas there are interests that want it anchored to a spot close to their own reality.

Possibly the report that the daughter of very rich people is to marry at 16, a man of 48, is a bit of gossip based on malice. The supposititious man in this instance is a horse trainer, or something of the kind. However, such matrimonial crimes are far from being unknown.

When a man of forty-eight would marry a child, quite regardless of their relative social stations, an injunction should be sworn out. In the absence of an opportunity to do this legally, a club with a knot in it would serve the purpose.

Correspondents have picked out another member of the cabinet to resign. It is not worth while mentioning his name. He may not know yet that he has had the distinction to be picked.

Judge Landis has won a fine reputation on the bench. When he accepted in addition to his judicial duties the considerable task of directing baseball, there was a feeling that his course was not wise. This never took the form of questioning his integrity. It is difficult for any man, even of the attainments of Landis, to serve two masters. His baseball salary was several times that paid him by the government.

Landis was attacked, but declined to quit under fire. The firing subsided, and he quit his court position. The general feeling will be that all his friends will be glad of it. They did not like to suggest it to him, nor did they enjoy seeing him made a target.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

When my old man was a kid he was one of the perils of navigation in the west, which was even more boundless then than it is now. He spent a number of his earlier years traversing the prairies. In those days there was an antelope to every sagebrush.

"They were so all-fired numerous," said my old man, "that I had to carry a red flag to keep 'em from running over me."

But in all those years he never shot an antelope. Not for lack of trying. He owned a large, square-barreled Sharp's that carried a bullet the size of your thumb and which would have driven a Hoosac tunnel through any antelope it hit. But the old man never hit.

"I always raised my sights too high," he said. "I consistently over-shot. When I should have been targeting at two hundred yards I had the rifle aimed at two thousand."

The old man's always been that way. As fine an old man, you understand, as this world has ever produced, but he is forever looking too far ahead. He has enough of this world's gear now to make him sure of physical comfort and most of the luxuries for the rest of his life. But he isn't content with that. He is forever worrying for fear the world should absolutely curdle about the year 1950 and thereby destroy his estate. He never stops to realize that he will not be here in 1950. He is worrying about putting a new roof on the barn seven years from now. He worries for fear the car which he will buy next year should not be as good a car as the one he would buy if he waited another year.

He knows perfectly well that he is raising his sights too high. He knows as well as I do that if he begins to fuss with his small estate in the hope of adding to it some one is apt to take all of it away from him. He knows that he has reached that age when his business is to enjoy the sunshine of today and not worry about the rain of tomorrow. He can sit down and moralize over this unfortunate tendency of his by the yard. But as soon as he forgets his own moral lesson he will begin to figure on some catastrophe that has not happened yet, and may never happen, and might not happen to him even if it did.

Remember this—he never shot an antelope in his life.

GLENDALE MUSIC CLUB IS ESTEEMED

Greetings Sent on First Birthday by California Academy

The esteem in which the Glendale Music club is held by Professional musicians and teachers is revealed in the following letter from the California Academy of Music, this city:

Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, President Glendale Music Club. My dear Mrs. Jones—It is my pleasant duty to send you greetings and many happy returns of the day upon the occasion of this, your club's first birthday.

We of this institution are sincerely and deeply interested in the progress of your club, and it is with a sense of profound admiration that we view your accomplishments during the first year of your activity.

Were it not for organizations such as yours the advancement of musical knowledge and the widespread interest in musical culture and its development as a whole would be sadly lacking in American life. Happily for those of us engaged in educational work in this city the Glendale music club has been of invaluable assistance in fanning the flame of enthusiasm and keeping alive the topic of music throughout the community.

Again wishing you "many happy returns of the day," we are sincerely and appreciatively yours, (Signed) California Academy of Music, Bert Short, Managing Director.

PRIVATE DETECTIVE PROVES PAROLED CONVICT

Eagle Rock Resident Has Sad Experience With L. A. Watchman

A large delegation, principally of business men, attended the meeting of the city board of trustees Monday night. The matter of employing a special policeman at night for the business district was the motive of their appearance at the council. In view of the recent experiences of certain residents north of Colorado boulevard, who had hired a watchman from a detective agency in Los Angeles, it was the consensus of opinion that such officers should be engaged by and under the jurisdiction of the city.

The Los Angeles man has disappeared, and so has an automobile which he had contracted to buy from a resident, but on which he had not made a payment. He had assured the owner of the car that an installment would be forthcoming after he received his month's pay from the parties he was supposed to be protecting. Now the information comes to Eagle Rock that the man is a convict on parole.

Eagle Rock really needs two night watchmen to cover the expanded business district and even a portion of the residential streets and the feeling is that they should report to the city marshal, not to any outside agency, and should be subject to the trustees.

A recess was declared at the meeting Monday evening to give the visitors an opportunity to confer with each other informally. They came to the conclusion that it was best to defer action until a canvass of the business district could be made, and it was decided to begin the canvass on the following day.

Routine business and minor matters of no special public interest occupied the rest of the evening.

"MOLLY-O" APPRECIATED

"Molly-O," the eight-year-old Mack Sennett production which features Mabel Normand, and has been tremendously popular, will be shown by the Parent-Teacher association this week, Friday night, in the Central school auditorium. There will also be a reel of scenes or events.

SELLS BUNGALOW

W. L. Miller, proprietor of The Sentinel, has sold the bungalow at 215 South Castle avenue, which is just completed, to Mrs. Elizabeth Rollins, from Kewanee, Ill.

LEGION DRIVE IS SCHEDULED FOR EAGLE ROCK

Women's Auxiliary Will Ask Contributions of $1 to Provide Home

The women's auxiliary of Theodore C. Koethen post No. 227 of the American Legion, at its last meeting, decided to have an American Legion home fund drive the early part of March. The canvassing members will ask every family for a contribution of one dollar to aid in providing a place in which the boys of the post can hold all their meetings and social affairs, feeling that it is a permanent home of their own. This, they feel, will not only be a desirable addition to the architecture of this developing city but a monument of loving remembrance richly deserved by the patriotic boys.

PRESBYTERIANS TO CONTINUE MEETING

At the Wednesday evening meeting of the Presbyterian church the topic of "Christian Internationalism," which had been under consideration at two previous meetings, will be continued. There will be discussion on self-government for India, and "the greatest political experiment in the world's history."

MARTSOLF RECOVERS

City Clerk B. B. Martsolf, who was laid up about a week with influenza, came down to the office Tuesday. Several employees in the city hall are out with the same prevailing disease, and quite a number of residents of Eagle Rock are reported more or less ill with it.

MORE CARRIERS ASSIGNED

FLUKE-SLASHER SCENTS A STORY

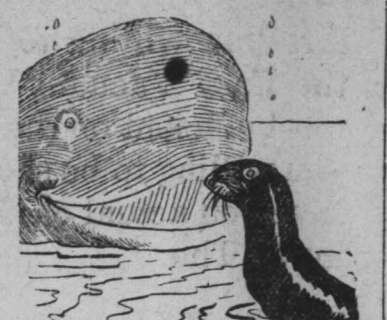

By JOHN BARTON
(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

"WELL," Dr. Muskrat continued his tale, "my great-grandfather didn't know what to say. That whale surely had him puzzled. 'Ark?' he squealed. 'What's an ark? I've never seen one.'"

"Humph!" snorted the whale, sending a new shower of spray all over everything. "Don't you know that every one in the world has been drowned except the two creatures of each kind? Mister Noah took aboard the Ark and me myself?"

"I didn't know, sir," stammered the poor little mousey beast he was roaring at. "Thank you for telling me. I must have been asleep at the time, sir. I and my mate, right here in our nest in the middle of our little tree. When I came out to see what was going on, why here I was. And here I still am. Not meaning to contradict you, sir, but an Ark is something I never set foot on. "Mouse-rat!" said the Fluke-

slasher, (for you know that's what the dead old fellow had taken to calling my great-grandpaw before it got changed over into our present name) 'Mouse-rat, I believe you're trying to take me in. (Fool him in what he meant.) 'You can't quite do that because your bite isn't big enough. But I can. If you're lying to me I'll take you in and swallow you down like I would a sprat. But if you're not—if you're not! He gave a most terrifying grin and founced off with that fluke tail of his fairly frothing the water behind him. "He hadn't gone far when he came on the big he-seal-lying on his back in the middle of the Flood, snoozing in the sun, with his front flippers folded comfortably over a fine fish dinner."

"Hello, Leather-foot!" roars he. "Where'd you leave the Ark? That's where I'm bound."

"Oh, I and my wife flopped off soon as the rain stopped," grunted the seal, opening one sleepy eye. "Keep clear of that craft; there's no advice to you. There's no knowing where she may have got to by this time. Such navigating! A clam shell full of trouble—that's all I can call her—a clam shell full of trouble—" he was dozing off.

"Hey, wake up, you!" roared Fluke-slasher again. "I want to ask you something else. Were there any mousetraps aboard her that you remember of?"

"Mmm-no. There were mice aplenty—I couldn't abide the taste of them. And there were rats, but—no—he broke off into another snore."

NORTH BRAND BUSINESS PROPERTY AT ONE-FOURTH VALUE, AS COMPARED TO SIMILAR PROPERTY IN OTHER LOCATIONS

Glendale is "V" shape, expanding to the north. The best residential district is north of Colorado, therefore, the business district will move northward. Glendale is building towards the mountains, like Hollywood.

We believe the "wise" investor, who buys North Brand NOW at the low price of $150 to $300 per front foot, will more than double his money in the next two years, as similar properties in Hollywood and other successful locations, have recently sold for more than four times the price quoted above.

We are exclusive agents for 25 (1250 feet) North Brand business lots, including some very desirable corners.

THE GREATEST SORROW

I have been sad a lot of times; the world has seemed so blue
I did not care to live at all, or fight the battle through.
Dull disappointment and dread care and sorrows I have known,
Until it seemed that all my hopes and dreams were overthrown.
I've had air castles and they went up in a puff like smoke;
And I've been down and out and tired and worried, sick and broke.
But no such sorrow have I known or seen or felt or learned
As one time when I was a boy the village school house burned!

Yes, that was sorrow at its worst! What memories return!
The teacher was the only thing about that did not burn.
The sums, the schoolbooks and the slates we loved were then no more.
What wonder that the boyish hearts of us were sad and sore.
The blackboards where we used to stand and shiver and grow pale
And where we wished for torture-place or stocks or even jail
Could we escape the sums and dates and rules she asked about—
Our little minds were like to sieves where knowledge all leaked out.

The morning bell we used to hear was gone down in the smash.
The desks and water pail and everything in char and ash.
It burned down in the winter night and when the morning came
It did not seem to us the world would ever be the same.
And with the winter sports of boys we tried to hide our grief,
And sledding, skating and the like brought us some small relief.
The great "Hooray" we gave! It could be heard all over town,
That winter morning when we heard the school house had burned down!

WOUNDED VETERAN OF WORLD'S WAR SEEKS WORK

Requests Training After Being Discharged From Hospital

A man who offered his life to his country during the world war and after 28 months' service was declared totally disabled from wounds received in action, is in Glendale seeking help. He does not want charity but work. Since his discharge from the United States army on May 21, 1919, he has been a patient at various hospitals and sanitariums in the state. Recently he was discharged from the sanitarium at Thornycroft and, as he has requested the government for vocational training, his disability compensation has been stopped, leaving him without visible means of supporting his wife and two children. At present his wife is working and the $35 that she earns each month is the only source of income that the little family has. His wife is working in addition to caring for the two children, one a girl of two years and the other a three-year-old girl.

This man who is asking work in order to relieve his wife of some of the burden, is a boilermaker by trade but cannot follow this work as his wounds will not permit him doing heavy labor. He can do light work and is willing to do anything, but would like to secure employment as a chauffeur, as he is qualified to drive and care for any make of car, and wants to be outside as much as possible.

When the United States entered the world war this man gave up his work and entered in the 127th infantry, a California regiment. This regiment was a unit of the 32nd division and took part in some of the largest drives in the war. On October 16, 1918, he was wounded and sent to the rear. He spent the rest of his time in the service as a patient in the various military hospitals, until May 21, 1919, when he was discharged from the service as totally disabled. Since his discharge from the army he has been a patient in various government sanitariums. A few days ago he was pronounced cured by the doctors at Thornycroft and discharged from that institution and is now seeking work.

This man has requested vocational training and will probably get it, but this will not be granted for some time and in the meantime he must have some means of support until his training starts.

Any one having some light work that this man can do or knowing where such work can be found, where he can get a job, is to be doing a deed of kindness. Communicate with Capt. Thos. D. Watson of the Glendale Daily Press, who has the man's credentials, which are of the best. The man prefers a position driving an auto but will accept any other light work that will enable him to lift the burden of supporting his family from the shoulders of his wife.

At present the family is seeking a temporary home for one of the children, a little girl two years old. She has been in the care of a friend of the father's, who kept the child as long as possible. It is impossible for her and her wife to care for the child any longer, and a new home for it must be found. Is there any one in Glendale who is willing to take a two-year-old girl with light, curly hair and a sunny disposition into their home for a short time until the father gets on his feet again and can care for the child himself?

If there is any one in Glendale with a house big enough to do this, they will be rendering a great help to the family. If such a home cannot be found it will be necessary to send the child to a home in Los Angeles until such time as the parents can care for it.

The parents do not want to send the child to Los Angeles as it would be practically impossible for them to visit it, so they are seeking a home in Glendale for the little one.

PATRIOTIC WORK AT ALL SCHOOLS

Both city and high schools are in session today. While it is a legal holiday, the school law provides for school sessions but stipulates that patriotic exercises must be held in honor of George Washington.

In the high school and intermediate, these will take place in the class rooms and will be conducted by the teachers, since at neither school is there an auditorium of sufficient capacity to accommodate all the students at an assembly. At the high school, exercises will be held at 10 o'clock and will be quite simple. Extracts will be given from Washington's addresses, particularly stressing his ideas on international policies and the extent to which those policies are applicable now. These will be handed to the teachers to be the theme of brief talks.

DRAMA SECTION INVITED TOSANTA MONICA

The Drama section of the Tuesday Afternoon club has been asked to give their three last plays at the district convention to be held at Santa Monica, March 28 and 30. These little plays have made such a "hit" that the Drama section has been asked to repeat them at this convention program, and consider it quite an honor to do so.

George Harvey says he is learning not to talk. It is unfortunate that we haven't a few thousand more diplomatic posts.

SULPHUR IS BEST TO CLEAR UP UGLY, BROKEN OUT SKIN

Any breaking out or skin irritation on face, neck or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation that instantly brings ease from the itching, burning and irritation. Mentho-Sulphur heals eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. It seldom fails to relieve the torment or disfigurement. A little jar of Mentho-Sulphur may be obtained at any drug store. It is used like cold cream.—Adv.

"COUSIN" EMIL SKIDS ON ICE AT M'CORMICKS

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—"Cousin" Emil Burgi rattled up to call on his new "relations" the family of Harold F. McCormick—but didn't get past the front porch.

Emil, cousin of Max Oser, Swiss livery stable proprietor whose engagement to Mathilde McCormick, 16, has been announced, just wanted to meet "Cousin Mathilde" and welcome her into the family, he said today.

"I didn't bring mamma along with me because she is tied up with the family washing," Emil apologized to reporters when he "flivvered" up to the McCormick mansion.

He rang the bell. "Put 'er there!" exclaimed Emil as he extended his hand when the door was opened. "America knows how to take care of her war heroes." That was Emil's first mistake. He thought the butler was a war hero because he was dressed like a Balkan general. "I'm cousin Emil," he continued. "I came to pay my respects to my new relations. In the old country we always make these calls before the wedding."

Emil waited. "A little paint here and there around this place would go fine," Emil, a decorator, mused. "Maybe Mr. McCormick will give me a job."

The butler brought out the tidings that "Mr. McCormick is not receiving anyone today."

"Perhaps another day," he said. "I want 'em to feel welcome in our family. Nothing stuck up about us."

Then he skidded on the newly formed frigidty.

HAROLD LLOYD IS AT THE GLENDALE

Someone at the Hal Roach studio got to wondering if there was anything Harold Lloyd couldn't do, so they checked off a few things they could think of that he can't do.

Lloyd, who comes today to the Glendale theatre in "A Sailor-Made Man," an Associated Exhibitors feature comedy in four reels, is an all round athlete, this including everything in a gymnasium. He can do everything in or under water. His mastery of 50 sleight-of-hand tricks would put him in the professional class. His mind reading test alone has netted thousands of dollars at benefits.

As a soft shoe dancer he could take the vaudeville stage, and could appear in higher priced houses with his fancy dancing. He is a shark of a chess player, a fine mathematician, has wide knowledge of piano and violin art, interior decorating, landscape gardening, and many kindred subjects.

Harold Lloyd has the reputation of making a thorough study of everything that interests him, and that includes a wide range of subjects. Every spare moment of his time is used in self-improvement. Of his many secret ambitions, two outstanding ones are to be a good chemist and to play the violin.
